ROMA CONTRACT, founded in 2015 from the international experience of SUD ITALIA MARMI srl, a leading company in the field of marble and stone since 1969. The aim of ROMA is to expand its product portfolio with a selection of products of excellence of Made in Italy, in the sector of the contract furnishings worldwide . It operates within the high-end market and stands out for constant innovation, excellence in products and services, design and prestige, spreading the Italian culture and style through its company management and its products.

HISTORY

ROMA coordinates a complex contracting activity within an exclusive sector; it offers a turnkey service including interior civil works, systems, finishes ad decorations in addition to fixed and loose furniture. Its scope of work spans from the executive planning to the production of all fixed and loose components of the project, from logistics to installation on site, from final testing to post sales assistance, always in conformity with quality, prices and deadlines agreed upon.

Roma offers a product created ad hoc for each single Client: it can be produced exclusively for the specific project or it can be selected from ROMA collections and customized in terms of finishes and materials so to suit the cultural genius of the client.

More than four decades ago Di Meo Family began its activity within the marble sector and today holds a position of excellence with a reference list of hundreds of projects, implemented all over the five continents, unique for their historic and artistic value.

Thanks to the technical and managerial experience acquired over the years and to the constant cooperation with, prestigious designers and respected international purchasing companies, Roma Contract day is active in many areas of the large supply contracts sector Villas, Hotels, bars, restaurants, private clinics, yachts, luxury boutiques, museums, Sacred Buildings, wellness centers, banks, offices are just some examples of the sectors where Roma is involved in.

With our Team of specialists and persons working in linked companies, today Roma offers its services to large international investors who want to create prestigious furnishing projects, characterized by unique design, and by a often complex management due to the dimensions of the project, the specificity of the products, the ever-pressing deadlines and the particular locations. The company addresses in particular those clients who demand, in addition to high quality products, services with a high technological content.

PHILOSOPHY

Among the various challenges set by modernity and the globalization in front of humanity and the industry world, the most relevant is to find solutions that will allow for a balance between profits and growth on one side and justice and social equity on the other. ROMA has worked, since the beginning, on a globalized market and thus has faced the international competitiveness. Its competitors are located in countries with low labour costs.

Since 1969, the year of the "moon landing", Mr Guido Di Meo and his Son Vittorio, faced a dilemma: increase the profits by outsourcing the production in countries with low labour costs or balance the growth and profits of the company with the social function of the company, regarded as a social good from which all the community where it is located should benefit. And the selection of the second alternative came natural, in tune with the entrepreneurial philosophy that goes against many of the current market and economic trends in this sector and, more generally, the Italian economy:

- Management vs. Ownership: with a clear distinction made between company ownership and management;
- Strictly all-Italian production: high quality at competitive prices through efficient management of production cycles rather than by using cheap labour outside Italy;
- Permanent contracts for employees: with a policy for the management of human resources that foresees, without the implementation of short-term temporary contracts, the employment of young people at their first work experience and the placement of women in managerial roles;
- "Weightless company" with investments not in material goods but in the non-material ones: IT, know-how, staff training, research and development and human resources.
